This Week In Culture: December 12 - December 18, 2022

Sophie Lee – December 12, 2022

When new technologies collide with the old, artistic forms blend into Photoshopped paintings, video installations of print photography, and more in this week's roundup of art openings and events.

Welcome to This Week in Culture, a weekly agenda of show openings and events in major cities across the globe. From galleries to institutions and one-of-a-kind happenings, our on-going survey highlights the best of contemporary culture, for those willing to make the journey.

“The Loudest Silence” by Ziping Wang Peres Projects Seoul

Ziping Wang's canvases are packed from corner to corner. The pieces are layered with a multitude of patterns, motifs, and references. At times, the artist cleverly blends visual markers of the Internet age, like pixel art and photo editing grids, with one of art's oldest forms: painting. Her maximalist aesthetic acts as a reflection of our information-overloaded society. “The Loudest Silence” is on view from December 15 through February 10, 2023 at Peres Projects in Seoul.
