

Art to invest in today: the 10 talented artists on our hot list

Art to invest in that you'll love for the long term

BY PATRICK HAMILTON COURTNEY

NOVEMBER 05, 2020

Want to know what art to invest in? Here are ten talented artists making waves today.

Of course when buying art, the most important aspect is whether or not you like or feel drawn to it. But in a world awash with styles, trends and expert opinions, the choice can feel overwhelming, so here's who is on our hot list.

SHOLTO BLISSETT

Through an exploration of humanity's emotional relationship with the natural world, Sholto Blissett conjures up vast, fictional landscapes that are arresting and majestic. The artist grew up in the medieval market town of Salisbury, and you can see the influences of nearby Stonehenge and the city's varied architecture coming through in his detailed work. There is a grandeur and classicism to the paintings and yet their grounding in our living environment – Sholto is a former geography student – keeps at bay any sense of loftiness. The artist has recently exhibited with Unit 1 Gallery and White Cube, and will make a fine addition to the collection of any architecture lover.