REBECCA ACKROYD AT SELFRIDGES

Whether it was the air conditioning or an increased number of windows, there was much talk about how enjoyable people are finding Frieze London this year.

While there are the usual blue chip, big hitters on view there was also a good showing from up-and-coming galleries like Arcadia Missa and Union Pacific. A sense of emerging trend redressed the balance of the marketplace. These fresh visuals and ideas were a good reminder of why we all flock to Regents Park year on year. Here are some of the best booths and standout artists this year ...

Rebecca Ackroyd at Peres Projects and Selfridges

Royal Academy graduate Rebecca Ackroyd is a star on the rise. Not only is she showing both painting and sculpture with her gallery Peres Projects at the fair, she also has a permanent work installed in Selfridge's department store. Her layered work encompasses humor, surrealism and a feminist message.
